A Quarter-Century of Experience

Health care billing is complicated to say the least. Proper coding not only effects profitability, but it can have a major impact on patient relationships. Because your billing is so detail-oriented, it requires a lot of time. Time that you would rather spend caring for your patients, training your staff, or improving your business.

The staff at Alta has spent over 25 years improving health care management and billing processes. We pride ourselves in the longevity of our operations, and apply the experience that comes from that longevity in your favor.

At Alta, we consider the accuracy of our services to be second to none. We maximize your bottom line while you maintain your focus on more important things - like the quality of your care.
